DID YOU KNOW?

Baur au Lac has maintained its leading position in the international hotel industry for 170 years. Opened in 1844 by Johannes Baur, it has remained in his family for the past six generations.

The hotel is located within its own private park, which is the setting for the annual 'Art in the Park' exhibition where monumental sculptures are showcased by artists, as a prelude to the 'Art Basel' show.

The Restaurant Pavillon was designed by star architect

Pierre Yves Rochon and features almost 360 degrees of glazing. Dominating the centre of the rotunda is a unique ArtDeco chandelier from the ateliers of Lalique in Paris.

Interior Designer Frédéric d'Haufoy was behind the classic and elegant design of the hotel's Petit Palais ballroom and twenty ultra-luxurious suites.

The original Donald Duck cartoon was reproduced at the hotel, first published in 1969 - featuring Dagobert Duck dining at the Baur au Lac with his nephew.
