DID YOU KNOW?

The hotel was classified as a Palace in 2016 following a major €33 million renovation in 2014 led by interior designer Christophe Tollemer, which restored the provincial character of this wonderful 16th century white-stone building.

Airelles' first members: Airelles Courchevel and Airelles Gordes are defined by their Palace classifications and Leading Hotels of The World status.

Airelles Gordes is home to over 2000 paintings and features period furniture, antiques and artistic artefacts that have been sourced from the most prestigious antique dealers.

The hotel's new restaurant Le Tigrr Gordes has become the fifth restaurant within this stylish chain, which already has venues in Paris, Saint-Tropez, Megève and Courchevel. With a bar, restaurant and club dominated by black and gold, it suits a wide range of occasions and is known for its 'Asian à la française' cuisine.

The Baron de Simiane Suite is named after one of the oldest and most illustrious Provençal families. Its particular charm comes from extensive arched vaults in light-coloured stone, its lime-rendered walls and incredible period furniture. The architecture of the room is both authentic and original, and the lighter and darker shades of decor give it a peaceful atmosphere.

The Vaserey Suite is named after the Hungarian-French artist Victor Vasarely, who is known to have stayed as a guest in Gordes.
